We don't know to whom the credit is due, but we want to report that it was a swell job the way thousands of cars, hurrying to and fro, all escaped without serious mishap during the holiday weekend. The credit may be divided among our good roads, efficient patrolmen and the careful drivers, but certainly credit is due in some quarter.

The holiday turned out to be the best this region has ever experienced. The weather was ideal, and for four days the highways were covered with vacation seekers. Resorts, hotels, bars, restaurants, fountains and service stations reported record business. With the right inducements we can continue breaking records, but we can't expect even normal activities without efforts. The work of the Lake Tahoe-Sierra Association, the Reno chamber of commerce and other surrounding organizations and individual resort owners were largely responsible for bringing the throngs to the district. We believe we here in Truckee should set the pace in promotion and provision for the vacationists and not rest under monuments erected by our neighbors. It has become too evident that we do not want a chamber of commerce. The attendance Tuesday night proved that beyond doubt. But we must have something tangible, something on which we can depend to promote our area and keep step with progress. Incorporation may be the answer.

Dangers of forest fires are increasing in this area with the warm dry weather. Campers, fishermen and others are being constantly urged to be ever-careful in disposing of lighted cigarettes, matches and handling camp fires. It is easy to prevent a fire but terribly difficult to stop one after it has got out of control. Forest service men are forever on the watch, but fires are not easily detected until they reach a dangerous proportion. It should be an individual obligation to prevent fires.

Record Travel Reported Here During Holiday

Estimate 17,000 Cars Thru Truckee Over 3-Day Week-end

NO SERIOUS CRASHES

Quarantine Station Crews Check Flow Of Traffic

According to the check made by the officers at the state quarantine station near here during the three-day holiday of July 4, 5 and 6, nearly 17,000 vehicles passed through Truckee, the Fourth showing only a few more than the other two days.

The check was made, according to Chief A. C. Marts, only of the westbound cars. During the three day period 8,501 were checked into California over Highway 40 and it was estimated that a similar number went east. These figures do not include the hundreds that turned to Tahoe at the wye and went via Lake Tahoe over Mt. Rose and Clear Creek roads.

During the three days 2,910 westbound cars were examined by the clerks at the station while 5,464 were termed as "locals" which had gone to Reno or other nearby out-of-state cities and returned. There were only 74 commercial trucks came west and 53 stages with 990 passengers were checked into the state.

Despite the unusually heavy traffic, the three days passed without a serious traffic mishap, speaking an excellent word for our highways, officers and drivers.

Local merchants, especially the restaurants, hotels, bars, motels and resorts reported the greatest volume of business in history. Reports from Lake Tahoe told the same story, with nearly every available room filled and resorts packed to capacity during the entire holiday period.

A few citations were issued as officers kept close watch on traffic conditions. One woman was injured in a collison on Dollar Hill at Lake Tahoe and two cars were wrecked near Rainbow Tavern but otherwise the days passed eventless insofar as tragedies were concerned, but weather and other conditions were ideal.

Old-Time Resident Here Visits With Kearneys

H. F. Clouette of Mill Valley, who spent his boyhood in Truckee in the 1880's, was visiting at the F. F. Kearney home this week. The two men are old school chums and enjoyed recalling the old times spent together years ago. Clouette is a retired railroad engineer and is spending some of his vacation time here fishing and visiting old friends.

Celeste Planett Plans Fun For Patrons at Lounge

Celeste Planett, who operates Celeste's Cocktail Lounge at Kings Beach, is preparing two special events for the amusement of her patrons during the next two weeks. Saturday she will stage a Kiddie Party and Sunday night at 9 p.m. old-fashioned movies featuring Charlie Chaplin in "Doughnuts and Dynamite" will be an attraction. Then on July 19, the hostess has made arrangements for a Christmas Party and—believe it or not—will be hostess to Mrs. Santa Claus on the occasion.

IMPROVING THEATER

Manager Verne Shattuck this week is supervising the painting of his Donner Theater in Truckee where a crew of experts is redecorating the popular playhouse. The foyer, lobby and exterior are receiving a new summer coat which makes the place even more attractive than previously.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Guidotti of Sacramento visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Esola, over the holidays.

GHIRARD CAPTURES LARGEST TROUT OUT OF RIVER SUNDAY

The largest rainbow trout caught from the Truckee River this season, if not for many seasons, was landed below Hirschdale Sunday by A. R. Ghirard. "Old Whiskers", as he was termed by his captor, weighed five and three-quarters pounds. Ghirard has twice before hooked the big fellow but each time he escaped. On one occasion his fishing companion, Dr. C. C. Cozzalio, was virtually pulled into the river by the fish before they seperated company.

Other fishermen over the three-day holiday reported better than average luck, with fly casting netting good results in nearly all quarters.

All streams and lakes were well patronized by hundreds of visiting fishermen from all parts of the state.

Work Done on Service Station for Associated

Work was completed this week on the new Sanders' Associated station where nearly $10,000 has been spent in remodeling and modernizing the station. The entire unit was rebuilt with the exception of the greasing room, which has been remodeled to keep pace with the many other improvements. A large revolving Flying A to adorn the top of the tower over the station will arrive this week to give the finishing touch. The manager, Orlan Sanders is inviting his friends and patrons to inspect the new station.

C.S.E.A. Picnic Put Ahead Due to Highway Work

According to Secretary Mel Hayes, the C.S.E.A. picnic, slated for this Saturday at Meeks Bay, has been postponde to an indefinite date, probably in August.

The reason given for the postponement was the fact that a great deal of extra work has been assigned to highway maintenance crews which would keep this contingent of the association from joining festivities this weekend.

Tahoe Players Presenting Coward Plays at School

The Tahoe Players are this week presenting Noel Coward's "Private Lives", featuring Kay and John Breeden of the Saratoga Little Theater, supported by three members of the players company. The play is being well received by audiences. Tahoe Players appearing in the production are Jeanne Smith, Hal Miller, and Donna Goodheart. The plot centers around the problems besetting "smart-set" continental married life and provides a really entertaining evening for play-goers. 'Private Lives' is staged by Ted Marcuse with sets designed by Charles Vance and Hal Millen.

In the second week of a nine-week season, the company reports favorable response to their efforts. Plays are presented nightly except Monday at the Tahoe Lake School House. Next week Coward's hilarious farce of family life, "Hay Fever", will be presented.

Lions See Historic Films During Weekly Meeting

With Harold T. Langille as program chairman, the members of the Truckee Lions Club and their several guests were privileged last night to witness a program of sound pictures presented by Harold Ambrose of Tahoma. One of the most outstanding shots was the fall of the Tacoma bridge last winter during a wind storm. The historic British and French naval battle last year occupied another important point on the program while animal pictures, one showing the development of a deer from the time it was small until full growth proved entertaining and educational.

The meeting was largely attended and presided over by President C. J. Bowers.

Sacramentans Hurt in Car Crash Day After Holiday

Horace A. Higgins, 34, and his wife, Lillie, both of Sacramento, were injured when the car driven by the former collided headon with one driven by H. C. Johnson, Sacramento, near Kingvale Tuesday night. The Higgins were attempting to pass a truck going west and did not see the approaching machine on the curve. After first aid by Doctor J. H. Bernard, they were taken to Sacramento for hospitalization. State Patrolman Grover Keeter and Deputy Sheriff N. F. Dolley investigated.

RELATIVES OF LOCAL MAN ECSAPE IN ODD ACCIDENT ON HILL

Captain and Mrs. Kenneth Leitch, their small daughter, and Mrs. Harriett Leitch, mother of the former and A. P. Leitch, the Truckee telephone company manager, escaped with only minor injuries and shock on Sunday morning about 5 o'clock when the two cars they were occupying were virtually demolished by a Greyhound bus near Rainbow Tavern.

The Leitches were returning to their homes in Sacramento, Captain Leitch operating one of the machines and his wife, mother and daughter were in the second car. A third machine stopped to turn into the Tavern parking area directly in their path and they were forced to stop. The bus following them was unable to stop in time and crashed into both vehicles.

Harry Landsberg was called and took the capital city people home. No one was seriously hurt.

Cost of Norden School to Truckee Board is Tripled

At a join meeting of the Truckee grammar school board and the board from Emigrant Gap with Superintendents Elwyn Gregory of Placer county and Walter Carlson of Nevada county, the local board budgeted $800 the pay half the cost of operating a school bus for the Norden emergency school, it as announced by President N. F. Dolley.

In the past the board here has paid $300 annually for transportation of summit students, but the equipment was condemned and the new contract will demand $1600 for the year, Placer county paying half. The school is in Placer county and the other expenses are paid by that county, the cost to Truckee being only for transportation of pupils in this county attending the summit school.

Room Thief Is Reported Having Stolen Diamonds

$5,000 Gem Loss Reported To Tahoe Officers by Salesman

NO WORD TO SHERIFF

Constable Reports Work of Experience Seen In Theft

Tahoe City, July 10.—Tahoe Tavern was the scene of an alleged jewel robbery on July 4 which investigators said had all the ear-marks of a professional job. Mrs. Leonard Bloch of San Francisco, who, with her husband, was a guest at the Tavern over the holidays, went for a swim early in the day leaving her jewels in a dresser drawer in her room. According to her husband, when the couple returned after the dip in the pool, the room had been opened and the jewels were gone.

Bloch said the loss in set stones totaled about $5,000, although hasty reports of the robbery had stated the amount as several figures higher, one metropolitan paper going as high as $100,000.

The thief left no clues that could be discovered and after further inquiry about the hotel it was reported that small amounts of money had been stolen from various other rooms amounting in all to about $100. Bloch stated that he is employed as a traveling salesmen for wholesale jewelers of San Francisco. He reported the theft to local officers and to Placerville authorities and investigators were immediately at the scene. Constable Harry Johanson of this city, leading the investigation, sent out a complete description of the stolen jewels by teletype early in the evening of the fourth, but it was suspected that the thief—or thieves—may be still in this vicinity.

Johanson said evidence seemed to point to the fact that the thief knew the location of the jewelry as the room had been entered by use of a pass key and nothing but the leather case holding the jewels had been molested. The seperate articles stolen include a diamond and platinum bracelet set with 204 diamonds and an equal number of sapphires, a pearl cluster ring and an oval bow knot pin set with 25 diamonds and six emeralds.

Bloch said at the time of the robbery, the hotel was filled with holiday crowds and he suspected that theft may have been planned by professionals.

Meanwhile, word from Sheriff Chas. Silva of Placer County states that if there was a jewel robbery at the lake resort, no report was made to his office.

"No report of a jewel robbery at Tahoe Tavern this season has been made to my office", Silva stated this week after reading of the robbery in the newspapers.

ALL CLEVER COOKS ARE PLAGIARIZERS!

Are you a kitchen plagiarizer? Fear not the appellation, suhn not the title, for though to plagiarize is "to purloin the artistic productions of another", it's exactly the right thing to do in the food world.

Borrw an idea frm the menu next time you dine out; "lift" a tip from the radio, the movies, columns like this, then make it yours with a new twist. It's lack of derring-do that makes for dull meals, so learn to purloin if you would please!

Today's column is devoted to tricks of the culinary trade which may help to make your chosen profession (?) a livelier one.

Ears for Cake Baking

Make "ears" on your cakes! When you line the baking pan with paper, cut two strips about 2 inches wide and put them underneath the lining paper—so that they cross in the middle and hang over the sides about an inch. When your cake is baked and cooled, lift it out by the "ears"—catch on?

Chocolate Flavored Gingerbread

Like "chocolate chip" cookery? Try M. E.'s trick: mix your package of the Washington gingerbread mix (George W. loved it!) as usual, only add half of a 7-ounce bar of semi-sweet chocolate cut into small chunks to the batter before baking.

Two Timer

Fool your friends who think you "slaved over a hot stove" all morning with Mrs. B.P.C.' trick; just mix a can of spaghetti-in-tomato sauce with a number one can of shrimp. Heat it in a casserole, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and dinner's ready! N.B.: You don't have to remove the black line from the shrimp unless you want to; it's iodine rich, so eat it or not as you wish.

Guide for Buying

Mrs. N. B., tired of too many left-overs, figured out this trusty meat-buying guide: one pound of boneless meat will serve four; one pound of meat with a little bone will serve three, and one pound of meat with more than an average amount of bone will serve two.

Rifled from a Restaurant

A southern restaurant, famous for its pecan pie, makes it this way: mix together 3 slightly beaten eggs, 1 cup dark karo, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup sugar. Then add 2|3 cup coarsely chopped pecans, and pour the mixture into a baked 9-inch pie shell. The secret is in the baking: bake it in a hot oven (450 deg. F) for 10 minutes only; then reduce heat to 350 deg. F and continue baking until a silver knife inserted in the center of the filling comes out clean.

Juice Without Tears

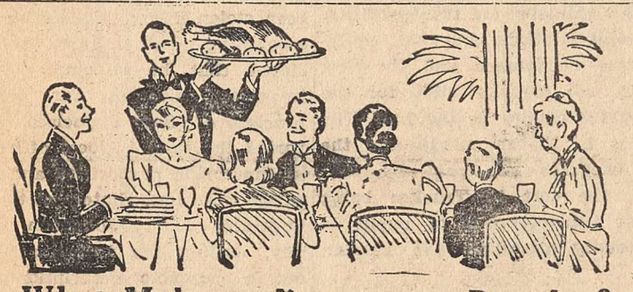
Onion juice for salads is a laughing proposition when you follow a famous chef's secret for it's extraction: sprinkle salt on the cut side of the onion, then scrape gently with sharp edge of knife. More juice, no tears. Happy thought?

Biscuit Lore

A champion biscuit maker (really won a biscuit contest) divulges the secret: don't mix the flour and shortening too well; don't knead dough for more than 30 seconds; and use an all-pohsphate baking powder. Investigate this secret, 'specially if you're a new bride.

Nuts In—Not To—This

The best-yet sauce for cauliflower, asparagus, broccoli or what have you for dinner tonight?—is made of melted butter (about ¼ cup) ½ teaspoon of paprika, a whisper of Worcestershire sauce, and ¼ cup finely ground, almost pulverized Brazil nuts.



What Makes a Restaurant Popular?

Good food, properly cooked, expertly and pleasantly served, is what makes a restaurant popular...and it's partly the reason for our popularity with the people of Truckee and Tahoe. Too, our prices are right—low enough for your profit, high enough for a profit for us.

Q. What will the Government do with the money I pay pay for my Bond?

A. Your money will be put to work at once in the National Defense Program to protect the freedom and safety of the United States, and of all its people everywhere.

PROTECT THIS TREASURE

Communities, gutted by catastrophic fire, have soon after swiftly risen from the ashes as if by magic. But forests consumed by fiery, swirling tempests of flame remain stricken for long years after, with their charred stumps and their patchwork of criss-crossed, black trunks resembling a nightmarish graveyard. Spectral forests and burned-over slopes are the forerunners of floods, erosion and barren earth.

We want no such waste lands. Every camper, hunter and tourist visiting the great timberland zones need only follow the simplest of rules to protect forests against their greatest enemy, man-made fires caused by carelessness. Never throw away a lighted match or burning cigarette butt. Never leave a campfire unattended without dousing it with water and covering it with earth. An extra few seconds' thoughtfulness is all that is needed to safeguard those perishable treasures which are the forest temples of California's outdoor wonderland.

LOOTING PUBLIC TREASURIES

What has happened to the pledges, made by many high officials sometime ago, to the effect that all non-defense government spending would be rigidly curtailed?

The unhappy truth is that these pledges seem to have been entirely forgotten. The abnormal degree of non-defense spending which took place during the depression is being carrieed on, despite the fact that employment, incomes and public purchasing power are rapidly rising as a result of the defense drive. Congress hasn't made a single important cut in any bureau's budget.

Only strong public protest can change this disheartening picture. It looks now as if necessary defense costs will exceed $50,000,000,000. They probablywill run much higher. A prominent official said recently that he anticipated a public debt of $90,000,000,000. And in the meantime, waste—reckless waste—goes on, and prodigality prevails in every field of government, no matter how non-essential.

Congress is preparing to levy steeply increased taxes on the people. It is preparing to soak individuals and businesses to the limit. Congress seems almost entirely disinterested in holding tax increases to the minimum by the simple expedient of reducing avoidable expenditures. If this selfishly unpatriotic political patronage policy is to continue, the end will be disaster for us all, and we will deserve it for our indifference in permitting non-defense looting of public treasuries when resources should be conserved.

My Place In The Sun

by DOUG BARRETT

Quite frequently, in order to get away from the rustle-bustle of the highway, I walk down the railroad tracks en route home. From that vantage poin I can get a pretty good idea of the view train travelers get of Truckee and environs. The long-look is wonderful but the short-sight is marred considerably by garbage, old tin cans, old paper and litterally everything unwanted. I'm sure tha the citizens who do use the south side of the tracks as a dump do not realize the unpleasant effect it has on outlanders' opionion of our little town, since if they did, they wouldn't. Incidentally, a "usually reliable source" close to your calumnist, says the Esspee R. R. just doesn't approve and will take appropriate steps to bring a halt to such practices now if not sooner.

Last Thursday as I was setting the Sun at the Post Office, I saw young Kenneth Snder begin his collection of stamps toward a United States Defense Bond. Kenneth, while still in grammar school, shows an acumen for business that is lacking in many of his elders. He is buying a share of stock in the most sound incorporation in the world, the United States of America, on the installment plan (another typically American stunt). From the way he was explaining it to the lad with him, he wasn't just buying the stamps because somebody told him to. He knew what he was doing. If every young man took the same interest in his future by banking or investing his money, our political demagogues would not be able to climb to power on such issues as the SRA and the WPA.

Street seens: three local belles in Gino Guidi's car last weekend but no Gino....Fred Rockholm cooking up a batch of pop corn at the Soprtland....O. A. (could it be Oscar?) Osmundsen from Donner and a train of healthy looking young-uns... Bud Zorich, Karl Kielhofer, Auggie Sassarini, Ang Besio and yers sincerely discussing their recent draft registration around a public trash can...Zelda (Dolly) Petroni has joined the Loynd Fountain Staff as of this week....with due respects to all others, doesn't Dolly Henderson have the nicest eyes?....shorts are becoming more unbecoming to some figures every year....Carl Smith on old stamping grounds....Art Barrick ridin' herd on traffic astride a motor bike....

I'm going to quit writing letters. It's really too complicated to keep track of, this business of social correspondence. Two people excage letters and that calls for another exchange, then they do it again, and so on. Then one day one party gets behind—way behind—and the other doesn't appreciate all the letters that have been written—it's the one that wasn't that rankles. It's really quite a problem to keep it up without either the exchange or one of the parties thereto breaking under it, so I htink that I'll just print up a mess (!) of My Places and when ever I owe a letter, just send one. So simple, am I not?

WINGS FOR AMERICA

by Don Wiley
MEMBER, AVIATION WRITERS ASS'N

From London this column has received on of the most detailed and interesting accounts we've yet seen of an aerial phase of the European war that has been somewhat obscured by mass bombardments and dog fights—the amazing flight delivery of American-built warplanes across the Atlantic.

Telling the sory is a Royal Air Force observer (name withheld by the censor) who acted as navigator of a Liberator bomber. The Liberator is the California-built, four-engine long-range bomber (designated by the U.S. Air Corps as the B-24) which is rolling off the assembly lines of Consolidated Aircraft Corp. at San Diego.

Bear in mind, as you read the observer's account of the delivery trip, that the Liberator is not a flying boat, but a 40,000-pound land plane.

"Throughout the whole of its 3350-mile trip the Liberator behaved perfectly", the observer reported.

"The preliminary 1000-mile flight from Canada to Newfoundland gave us our first 'feel' of the craft. All five of us—the captain, radio operator, RAF gunner, myself and the co-pilot (an American)—agreed she was all right.

"From Newfoundland we set out at nightfall....climbing through a lower layer of threatening clouds to see as much as possible of the stars so as to navigate. The captain adjusted the controls, trimmed the aircraft and set the automatic pilot. I was constantly busy checking our ground speed and position by astronomical observation....

"Despite the fact that we were flying high and the outside temperature was below freezing we did not feel at all uncomfortable. Of course, we were all wearing oxygen masks, but these did not hamper movement in any way. It was beautifully warm in the aircraft and I wasn't wearing any flying clothes except flying boots ...I only felt the intense cold when I opened the 'astro' hatch to take a shot with a sextant.

"Seven hours passed and the engines were still purring sweetly. The stars faded out and the sun was like a ball of fire just lighting the eastern sky when the radio officer made contact with English soil. I again checked our position and after 7½ hours we were off the Irish coast, which shows the speed of these craft, now supplied in ever-increasing num-

WHAT IS ADVERTISING ANYWAY?

A lot has been written about advertising.

A lot of speeches have been made about it.

But the whole fact in a nutshell is—advertising is simply a time-saver.

It saves time fr the man or woman who wants to buy smething—and for the store or factory with something to sell.

And like most time-savers, it's a money-saver too.

BEST FOURTH EVER SWAMPS BUSINESS HOUSES AT TAHOE

Tahoe City, July 10.— Crowds at lake resorts over the holiday week end exceeded all past summer seasons, according to resort owners. In Tahoe City the hotel, all lodging places and cottages were filled to capacity and had to turn away scores of would-be guests. Business houses here were forced by continuous crowds to keep open all night on the first two nights of the holiday.

At Meeks Bay the main hotel, cottage courts and even camp sites were over-crowded and five-minute parking for transient autos had to be resorted to on account of congestion of cars.

The Bal Bijou night club, near the eastern state line, having a capacity of a thousand persons, was packed to standing room only on the evenings of the fourth and fifth.

All lake highways were alive with traffic throughout the four days, but no serious road accidents were reported on the California shore. One minor accident occured when a hasty driver took a turn too fast on the Dollar grade. His car leaped a bank with the result of slight damages, but no injuries to the driver. He was cited on a charge of reckless driving.

"Mysterious Penny" At Lake Grows 80 Times

Tahoe City, July 10.— "The Mysterious Penny", of Meeks Bay, which was launched on its mission last week, is now under way according to its sponsor, Mrs. Pearl Heller.

There is an old adgae, "a rolling stone gathers no moss" but it seems that this does not apply to the "mysterious penny", for already it has begun to gather—perhaps not moss—but a substance of much more worth. On the first lap of its journey (about a week's time) Mrs. Heller says the penny has increased its original value nearly 80 times.

We are sorry to leave the interested reader in the dark, but after all it is the "mysterious penny" and its sponsor tells us the time is not ripe for revealing its secret.

MASTERING CIRCUMSTANCES

BUSINESS men are constantly called upon to face conditions or circumstances which must be mastered if they are to be successful. To ignore them is to invite defeat and failure. Occasionally one hears it said that religion and business do not mix. This indicates a lack of understanding of what constitutes a successful business enterprise and of what true religion consists. The first three verses of the first Psalm give a recipe for attaining true success in whatever undertaking one may be engaged. Here we read: "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night. And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

Thus one who would attain true success must not listen to the counsel of those who ignore God's laws and are therefore unqualified to give sound advice. Neither does he seek help of the dishonest and sinful; nor is he found in the company of the boastful and worldly wise. He looks alone to the one source of true wisdom, infinite Mind, God, for guidance in the solution of every problem. Turning to the Bible, which contains the statement of God's law, he finds therein valuable counsel which he puts to practical use in his daily activities. . . .

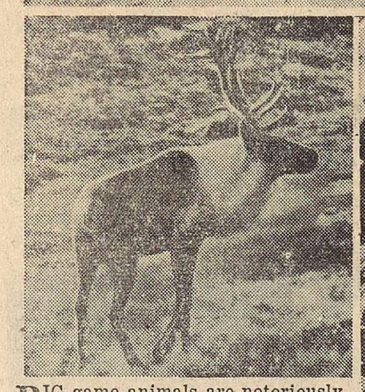
On page 254 of Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, Mary Baker Eddy makes a statement which, when understood in its spiritual meaning, relieves one of a false sense of responsibility, with its attendant fear and worry. She says, "When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path." What is it to "wait patiently on God"? Patience is not simply sitting down calmly and waiting for something to turn up, nor is it putting up with evil conditions and grimly bearing them. Patience is really the persistent expectancy of good. To seek Truth righteously is to endeavor to learn God's plan and purpose for man. So, when we wait on God, persistently seeking only good, and through prayer endeavor to learn God's plan and purpose, the right human footsteps will surely be made plain to us. And it is not necessary for us to know today the human footsteps which may be necessary for us to take tomorrow.

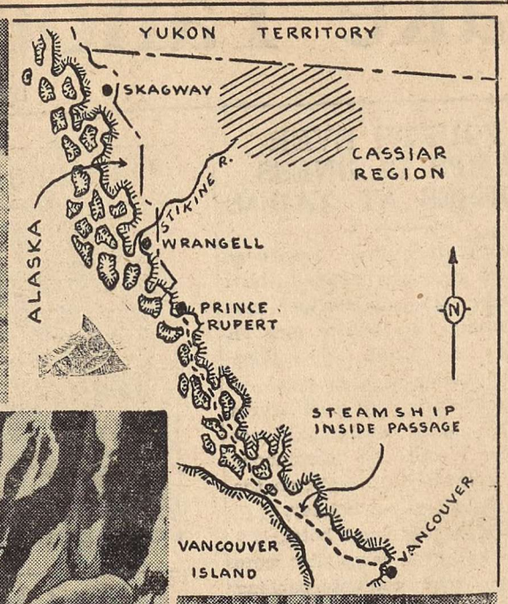
The business man who is persistently seeking only good for his customers, for his employees, and for himself, and prays understandingly for divine guidance, may be sure that the right way will unfold to him and true success will be certain.

The one who is without remunerative employment may feel that the circumstances with which he is faced are beyond his control. While the immediate condition may have been brought about by events or circumstances which he could not foresee or prevent, the mastering of adverse circumstances is to be achieved within his own consciousness, within spiritualized thinking based on a right understanding of God. One may well begin with a clear realization that his real business is to express or reflect God in his every thought and activity. Mrs. Eddy writes (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 307), "God gives you His spiritual ideas, and in turn, they give you daily supplies." The source, then, of all true ideas or thoughts is infinite Mind, God, and as one turns with confidence to Him in fervent prayer for guidance, the right human footsteps will appear. Christ Jesus said (Matthew 6:33), "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Just before Jesus gave utterance to this profound spiritual admonition he had been speaking of the ordinary human needs for food and clothing, so we may be sure that when we apply this rule intelligently in working out our human problems of employment, business, and supply, every need will be met.

Whatever the conditions or circumstances with which one may seem to be faced, if one seeks first a right understanding of God and of man's spiritual relationship to Him, he may be sure that "whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Big Game Still Plentiful In Canada's Northwest





BIG game animals are notoriously shy. Even the grizzly, except an occasional outlaw, will not attack wantonly. The spread of civilization with all its implications has driven big game farther and farther afield, until there are few places left upon this Continent where they can still be said to be common.

Such an area is the Cassiar in Northern British Columbia, Canada. Here Caribou, Moose, three varieties of Sheep—the Fannin, Stonei, and Dahl — Mountain-goat, Grizzly and Black Bear are still to be found in sufficient numbers to justify the term "plentiful."

Telegraph Creek is the main outfitting point for the Cassiar country. It is reached by river-boat from Wrangell, Alaska, via the spectacular Stikine River. The terrain is fairly open, and hunting can be done on saddle and packhorses, but the hunter should be prepared to spend at least five weeks in the area to do it, and himself justice. Arrangements should be made well ahead through the British Columbia Provincial Game Commission, Vancouver, B. C.

Actually, the whole Province of British Columbia is a prolific hunting-ground, but the Cassiar area is unique both for variety and quality, and for the number of its record heads, many of which are to be seen in famous U. S. institutions such as the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

Article Tells Story of Liberty Loans of No. 1 World War Efforts

Now that the federal government is seeking to finance defense projects partly by the sale of defense bonds, interest reverts to the Liberty Loan campaigns of the first World War. Writing on this remarkable feat of war financing and bond salesmanship, Miss Helen Willis says, in part, in the current issue of National Republic magazine:

"The story of the Liberty Loans of the World War is of interest again today because of the defense bonds and savings stamps on sale throughout the nation. Thousands of persons from coast to coast to coast will purchase these bonds to aid in the gigantic defense prgram now in progress.

"The story of the Liberty Loans, floated during the World War, is a romantic page, replete in deeds of sacrifice and bravery and they were outstanding factors in the American pictuer 1914-1918. In the perpetuation of the rights of democracy, the Liberty Loans were not commercial transactions for financial gain, but rather an adventure into an unknown field. It was the first time in the history of nations that people voluntarily went into their private savings accounts to help pay their war debt. The sale of bonds in such a time is of the stay-at-homes. Now it will be the civilians' answer to the defense program which is getting under way. In the case of the Liberty Loans, the response was the grandest testimonial to the loyalty of the people the nation has ever known. It is hard for us, looking back on the World War, to realize and fully appreciate this army of civilians who gave of their time, energy and money to preserve American ideals. They took up arms in this great movement and swept aside every obstacle, resulting in an organization that furnished nearly two-thirds of the war funds needed while the United States was engaged in actual hostilities.

"Varied were he places where the money was used—loans to the allies, equipping of the army and navy and the building of ships were some of the outlays provided for by the money subscribed to the Liberty Loans. Aside from the patriotic element and considered solely from the financial value to the nation, the loans remain unparalleled in history. The sum of $21,477,335,850 subscribed during the war is an amount worthy of consideration today when Congress speaks only in billions and is more significant when it is realized that the amunt came from 66,289,000 individual subscriptions from citizens in a real test of courage and patriotism in every walk of life.

"The late William Gibbs McAdoo directed the first four loans and Hon. Carter Glass the fifth. Their headquarters were in Washington. However, the greater share of the work was done by a system of decentralization which came through the Federal Reserve Districts of the nation. The work was further divided into states, counties, townships and communities."

Library Given

Ex-President Herbert Hoover, an important figure in World War I, speaks at dedication of the library on War, Revolution and Peace which he gave to Stanford University. The $600,000 building towers 280 feet over the university campus, contains more than 5,000,000,000 rare books and secret reports of the first World War.

Safety Bureau Recites Precautions to be Taken To Avoid Water Death

Every 30 minutes this summer some one in America will drown.

When autumn's chill winds finally coax water enthusiasts back from beach, river and lake to warmer and safer pursuits, the nation will count no less than 5,000 dead from drowning, most if not all of them sacrificed unnecessarily in the name of relief and recreation.

This is the unpleasant but timely word that comes from the National Conservation Bureau, accident prevention division of the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives, whose estimates are based squarely on past records.

At least 25 per cent of the faltalities from drowning this summer, the bureau's safety doctors reluctantly admit, will occur to boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 19, inclusive, and six out of every seven will be a boy or a man—a token, no doubt, no doubt, of the male's incurable desire to display his imaginary prowess before the fair sex.

How to Avoid Tragedy

But it need not happen, say the accident prevention specialists.

"Safe pracices can be followed," they assert, "when swimming or using small boats and canoes which will reduce the possibility of drowning to a minimum without interfering in any way with the pleasure which may be gained from water sports. For example, danger of cramps may be largely eliminated if you will wait not less than one hour after eating before going in the water; also do not swim when overheated or remain in the water when chilled or exhausted.

"More than 200 persons are killed each year in diving accidents. Broken necks and backs and shattered skulls are the penalty for failure to know the depth of the water when diving Know the depth of the water and be sure there are no submerged logs or rocks before diving. Don't indulge in water sports unless a competent swimmer is present in case of emergency. Non-swimmers or poor swimmers can't save a drowning person.

"Don't attempt swimming feats that are beyond your strength. When you swim out into deep watre, allow plenty of reserve strength so that you can return safely. Don't attempt long-distance swims unless you are accompanied by a boat, and don't swim at all if you have a bad heart or other physical deficiency that may endanger your life.

Don't Rock That Boat!

"When using small boats and canoes step or sit along the center line of the keel and don't rock the boat! If your boat does tip over, don't try to swim to shore unless sure you can cover the distance easily. Your boat has enough buoyancy to support all its occupants in the water until help arrives. The best way to rescue another swimmer is by pulling him along by the hair or grasping him under the armpit and swimming in on your back.

"The best method of artificial respiration is to stretch the victim out face down, one arm extended above his head and the other bent so that his cheek rests on the back of his hand. Straddle his knees, apply pressure with the palms of the hands in thes mall of his back for two seconds, relax for two seconds, and again apply pressure. Keep this up until he regains consciousness or aid arrives. Remember that 'drowned' persons have been resucitated after more than seven hours of this type of artificial respiration!"

Durbin Picture Employs New 360 Degree Set for Panoramic Dance Scene

The first "360" degree set ever used in Hollywood will be seen in Universal's Deanna Durbin picture, "Spring Parade", when it shows Saturday at the Donner Theater.

The set, a dance floor, was completely surrounded by a cyclorama and buildings, permitting photography from any angle and allowing the camera to bes wung in a complete circle. The setting is used during the filming of a scene showing Deanna and Mischa Auer doing the czardas, wild peasant dance.

To take advantage of the circular form of the set, Joe Valentine, cinematographer, developed a motor-driven camera mounting which spins the camera around on its tripod and in a vertical circular motion. It was employed during the dance sequence to obtain panorama shots of the 50 couples who perfrm the fas and furious dance with Deanna and Mischa.

Included in the cast of "Spring Parade" with Deanna and Auer, are Robert Cummings, Henry Stephenson, Butch and Buddy, Anne Gwynne, Walter Catlett, S. Z. Sakall, Samuel S. Hinds, Allyn Joslyn and others.

Traveling Around America

CURRENT HEADGEAR

PERHAPS South American headgear such as this is responsible for some of our concoctions in millinery. This particular number—a vegetable tray—looks as if it might have been the inspiration for the out-sized versions of Breton sailors which have appeared at garden parties and cocktail bars in our smarter resorts.

The native shown here lives in Puerto Cabello, an important port in Venezuela visited weekly by 12-day weekly cruises from New York. She and her sisters swing along the streets balancing everything from bowls of biscuits to full sized mattresses on their heads. Even the children, among the natives, trot around topped by little bundles. As a result of this, all head carriers—of whatever race they be—have a graceful gait and perfect posture which it might behoove us to try to achieve. Maybe grandmother had the right idea after all when she decreed that daughter should practice walking around with the famil/ Bible on her head.

The natives and their primitive little houses are only a part of the picture in Puerto Cabello, however. This port, like many other cities in South America, is gradually developing new industries. There are now textile mills here, marble works, sawmills, coin mills, cigarette factories, meat packing plants and a drydock shipyard.

The ruling would permit the re issuance without the necessity of paying renewal fees during the time they are in service, which is a modification of license limitation rule No. 41. Hhe ruling was prposed by board member Fred E. Stewart of Oakland.

New Record of Growth Shown In Bank of America Midyear Report

Defense Effort Promoted While Business Served

Another period of outstanding progress is revealed in the mid-year statement of condition of Bank of America, California's statewide bank, as of June 30, 1941. President L. M. Giannini pointed out that the record was achieved in the face of the new problems and substantially increased expenses due to the provision of extra staff and facilities to promote the defense effort, as well as rising costs generally and increased taxes.

Deposits stood at $1,685,488,000, an increase of $189,466,000 over the comparable date of June 29, 1940. Total resources were $1,877,738,000, a gain of $201,097,000 in the same period.

Loans and discounts outstanding aggregated $844,466,000, which is $119,891,000 higher than a year ago.

Earnings for the six months were $14,067,000. From this $2,246,000 was reserved for depreciation of bank premises and amortization of bond premiums and $2,726,000 was set up in reserves and applied to the absorption of losses and the revaluation of assets. After the payment of $5,340,000 in dividends at the annual rate of $2.40 per share of the common stock and $2.00 per share on the preferred stock and after $348,000 in profit sharing bonus to employees, capital funds were increased from earnings in the six months by $3,406,000.

Capital funds including capital, surplus, undivided profits and reserves, now total $156,743,000, which compares with $152,206,000 on June 29, 1940, an increase of $4,537,000 for the year, after the application of $3,000,000 of capital funds for the purchase and retirement of 60,000 shares of preferred stock on January 2, 1941.

President Giannini pointed out that the Articles of Association which created the preferred stock provided for the increase of common capital by amounts equivalent to the par value of preferred stock retirements. Under this provision, $1,200,000, representing the par value of the preferred stock so far retired, has been set aside for future use either for an increase in the common stock or an increase in the par value of existing shares.

"This report is particularly gratifying," said President Giannini by way of comment, "because in the period covered California has been geared up to do a major job in defense production and our first thought has been to cooperate. Full facilities of the Bank of America have been made available for the defense effort, without overlooking the requirements of all other business. This has required increased staff and expanded facilities wherever it was possible to meet the needs.

"Strenuous times are here because of the preparedness effort, and more readjustments in our economy lie before us, but private enterprise remains a very important factor in the American scene and is in fact an essential in the cooperative effort necessary to generate America's full power."

The DEFENSE PARADE This Week

Aid to Russia, France, China

Acting Secretary of State Welles announced Russian requests to buy strategic materials had been received and brought to the attention of the proper government officials. Welles also said the U. S. has under consideration a plan to relax export restrictions on Russian commerce to permit the flow of war materials to that country. He also announced U.S. and North African French officials have arranged a plan calling for continuous movement of two ships carrying tea, sugar and other food to Africa and two carrying strategic materials to the U. S.

President Roosevelt suspended duties on British Burma vessels reaching the U. S., to aid the flow of supplies to China over the Burma Road. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau extended China's $50,000,000 credit here for another year. Assistant Commerce Secreary Hinckley asked commercial airlines for 12 tansport planes to meet "emergency defense requirements of the democracies."

Army

In his bi-annual report to the Secretary of War, Army Chief of Staff Marshall urged that Congress pass legislation permitting use of armed forces outside the Western Hemisphere and permitting holding selectese, National Guardsmen and Reserve Officers ni the service for more than one year. General Marshall said that conditions have changed to such an extent that a "grave national emergency" exists of a more severe character than the public realizes.

The War Department announced it will promote its officers on the basis of merit instead of seniority and permit re-enlistment for Regular Army men only if they are qualified for promotion in order t weed out those no able to take advantage of further training.

Selective Service

More than 750,000 men who reached 21 since Selective Service registration last October, registered for service last week throughout the nation. President Roosevelt ordered 900,000 men inducted into the Army as selectees now in service finish their year of training.

Pending final action by Congress on legislation deferring men who were 28 on July 1 or before, Selective Service Director Hershey ordered temporary deferment of this group. He also advised local boards to defer registratns with one or more dependents to whose support they make "any substantial contribution". The only exception to this he said would be men who married in the hope of evading service.

Army Recreation

The War Department announced a program of stage shows at Army camps throughout the country and said civilian contributions to soldiers' welfare will be coordnated by the Citizens Committee for the Army and Navy, Inc. Outstanding theater men have made arrangements for five road shows to visit camps, using equipment built on trucks, the department said.

Congress passed legislation designed to prevent prostitution within a "reasonable" distance of military and naval reservations.

Defense Area Public Works

Congress voted $150,000,000 for the construction of schools, water works, sewers, hospitals and other needed public works in localities overcrowded by defense workers. Works Administrator Carmody established 11 regional offices to handle the program and select projects suggested by the communties and for which the communities will help pay.

Labor Supply

The U. S. Employment Service reports serious shortages of workers in 13 shipbuilding, 16 aircraft and 26 machine shop occupations such as ship fitter, template maker, boat-builder, aeronautical engineer, aircraft riveter, tool and die maker and lathe operator.

Summer Time

The temperature is up and most people aren't giving much thought to the problem of winter heat. However, this is the time to give a great deal of attention to that problem which literally may mean the difference between comfort and suffering, between life and death, here in the High Sierra.

This is the time to replace the outmoded and inefficient heating systems with modern oil burning units to furnish a maximum of healthy heat in the inevitable cold winter days ahead. This is time, too, to insure your winter's supply of fuel oil for the entire season. Then, too, this is the time to check your present oil burning units to see if you are enjoying peak performance from flawless equipment.

Yes, sir, now is the time for all good men to check up on next winter. It will be here sooner than you realize.

RUSSIA RETREATS

Russia's decision to wage "scorched earth" warfare is both an admission of the seriousness of the German advance and a forewarning to her invaders that they may meet the same fate which overtook the armies of Napoleon. The Soviets, in the face of continuing Nazi gains, are embarked on a program of destroying all foodstuffs and equipment likely to fall into German hands; of removing all cattle and available transport to the rear lines. Vast, sprawling Russia, like China, has few strategically vunerable areas. Because its industries are so widely scattered, it can afford to lose many towns and cities without seriously endangering its ability to resist. By adopting that same "scorched earth" program in its struggle against Japan, China has wrought a military and economic miracle. Today China is industrially, militarily and economically far more powerful than she was four years ago this week when Japan first launched its offensive. It remains to be seen whether Russia's forces can retreat faster than the swiftly moving German armies can race after them.

⊹ Prospective Governors Previewed by Commentator ⊹

GOVERNOR CULBERT L. OLSON

by CLEM WHITAKER

Political ballons are going up in all directions, just like it was election year, instead of a year ahead of time—and some of the things one sees in the sky are very interesting, indeed.

Here are some of the ballons currently drifting across the horizon:

Dr. Walter Scott Franklin of Santa Barbara, who won the GOP nomination of r lieutenant governor in 1938 but was nosed out at the final, is an avowed candidate for governor next year. The good doctor, who polled more than a million votes in the '38 election, is the first announced candidate for the Republican gubernatorial toga in 1942.

Attorney General Earl Warren, the GOP's strongest bet at this writing, is tending to his official chores and saying nothing. His friends, however, are releasing his balloons for him—and Warren is still the biggest name in the Republican sky.

Governor Olson, whose stock was very low a year ago, is now flying high wide and handsome, hoping to ride in for a second term, due to the national emergency and the traditional disinclination of American voters to switch horses in the middle of the stream.

Balloons are also being sent up for Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles as a Republican aspirant, but while Mr. Bowron was re-elected a few weeks aback, his showing wasn't as impressive as the GOP scouts had wished for. There's considerable Republican activity, too, in behalf of Wallace Ware, former member of the state railroad commission, who now names L.A. as his home base.

In the Democratic sky, Senator Robert W. ("Bob") Kenny of Los Angeles is floating around with the greatest of ease. Mr. Kenny, it is generally conceded, might have a good chance to beat Governor Olson in his own party, but the dexterous, genial "Bob" may pull out of the gubernatorial fray and run for attorney general if Warren should make formal announcement for governor.

If Kenny decides to run for governor or attorney general, you can put it down in your dope book—that Assemblyman Jack Tenney will run to succeed him as Los Angeles county's member of the state senate Tenney's campaign slogan is: "After Kenny, why not Tenney?"

Assemblyman Lee T. Bashore of Glendora is all set to take out after the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor, and State Senator Oliver J. Carter of Redding, who was previously mentioned for state board of equalization, is said to be playing with the idea of running against Lieutenant Governor Ellis Patterson for the Democratic nomination.

PREPAREDNESS NOW

One more significant test of collaboration among American republics has just been made. In a new plea, the United States has asked all other nations of this hemisphere to embark on a policy of "constructive and practical cooperation" to protect the security of the Americas. Specifically, the proposal asks that if any American nation should find herself at war in defense of its rights, it be permitted to use the harbors, air and naval bases, and other facilities of its sister nations. This preparedness plan, if accepted, would enable the United States to come instantly to the aid of any Latin American country, without having to obtain its consent at the last critical moment. This request asking, as it does, the right to station our military forces in Latin American territory, will be as severe test of South America's belief in the good faith and good intentions of the "Yankee Colossus." Yet without such faith and genuine cooperation by all parties, hemisphere solidarity will remain a name only.

A DRAFT CALL FOR PROPERTY

The drastic demands of the "draft property" bill are a clear forewarning to the country's small producers hat they must soon shift over, as far as possible, into production for defense or face either one of two prospects: The seizure of their machine tools, and possibly their plants, if the draft property measure is enatced, or such strict rationing of materials that operation of their plants will be sharply curtailed. Senators Johnson and Downey of California have warmly opposed the far-reaching powers of a property bill which would permit seizure first and determination of compensation later. To these protests, War Dept. spokesmen reply that inasmuch as the government now has full control over production of tools and supplies, it should likewise have control over existing tools and supplies. Meanwhile, latest reports from Washington say that rationing will soon be due on such materials as aluminum, copper, zinc nickel and even certain types of lumber. Even without a draft property law, thousands of California's smaller firms will keenly feel the effects of rationing on these basic items unless, either by expansion or a shift-over in production, they gear their facilities to the all-out defense effort.

THEY LIKE IT WITH MUSIC

When it comes to putting on a bang-up show in the political arena, Texas bows to none. Eastern wits who have twitted California's madcap shennanigans will now have to level their barbs to the south and east of the Golden State. Complete unofficial returns have given first place to Gov. Lee O'Daniel in the Texas senatorial race. Victory went to the governor against a field of 24 contestants, many of whom spared no hi-jinx in capturing the eyes and ears, if not the votes, of Texans. But Governor O'Daniel, who professes to "hate" politicians, proved himself the smartest politician of them all. With a simple "home folks" campaign, plenty of entertainment and hill-billy singing, this comparative newcomer to politics beat the experts at their own game. Lone Star voters like their politics with music.

THE MEN OF VICHY FORGET

Most unusual news item of the week: A Vichy, France, general "accuses" British forces in Syria of fighting like savages. The dispirited men of Vichy have evidently forgotten the blunt, unfortunate truth so memorably put by General Sherman, "War is hell."
